LITTLE LOCALS.

To the carelessness of a wood hauler, the destructive prairie fire which raged in the 09 pastures in Crockett county is attributed. Parties from Ozona assisted in fighting the angry, wind swept flames, which finally destroyed three sections of good grass. The fire was only extinguished after persevering and energetic hours of work had been done.

On Saturday night, December 1st, J. O. Miller, deputy sovereign commander of the State lodge, Woodmen of the World, from Abilene, will address a meeting of the citizens of Wall, on Lipan Flat, on the benefits and truisms of this substantial organization. Mr. Miller's visit to Wall will be a preliminary meeting for the purpose of organizing a Woodman Camp at that coming town.

Rev. G. H. Hendricks, a Cumberland Presbyterian evangelist, left Tuesday for his home in Paris, after conducting a series of revival meetings in San Angelo. Mr. Hendricks closed his meetings Monday night, the inclement weather preventing the continuation of the services. Evangelist Hendricks is an able preacher of the gospel, and what services he held in this city did good.

Never Satisfied.

ALTHOUGH our business is constantly increasing, we are always after more. The coming holiday season, we believe, is going to break the record and we want our share of the patronage of the Musical Public, particularly in this section of the country, and why not? Our facilities for supplying everything in Music and Musical Merchandise are the very best, having, as we do, connections with all the larger music publishing and musical merchandise houses of the country.

We carry one of the largest stocks of pianos in the entire South, representing Boardman & Gray, Albany, N. Y.; established 1837. "Crown" Pianos and Organs, Schulz Pianos and several others.

In consideration of this we feel justified in soliciting your order for anything and everything musical.

Our guarantee of making you a satisfied customer is the reputation of this house for the past Seventeen years.

Snow in November. "Never Before."

The light snow that fell in San Angelo Tuesday, Nov. 20, was as unprecedented and seemed as odd to old timers in this city as a blue, icy norther would seem on August 15, in West Texas. February is our winter month, but not August. Just like last April "swapped" places with July, in regard to rain, possibly February has made a bargain deal with November.

An old timer, who has been in San Angelo over twenty years, said Tuesday afternoon that never in his residence in West Texas had a November resembled this year's month of that name.

UNUSUAL WEATHER SEVERE WINTER AHEAD

Sleet and Snow in November—Thermometer at 23 Above. Unusual This Time a Year.

Everything points to a most severe winter in West Texas this year. We are already experiencing very unusual weather for November, the thermometer having dropped this early in the season, to as low a point as it fell in the month of February of last winter.

Monday night and Tuesday morning, Dr. S. L. S. Smith's reliable instrument was at the 23 above zero mark. That is extraordinarily cold for November.

The severe norther that came up Saturday, increased in its intense severity, until Tuesday morning, when a light sleet began falling. The sleet, mingled with frequent flakes of snow, prevailed here the greater part of Tuesday, and made that day the coldest and most disagreeable of the winter thus far.

If it's starting in this early, what will it be in February, heretofore the severest of the winter months? We have nearly half a month of fall time to go through yet, ere winter time is full here. Let's be prepared for it. We are not predicting, but simply warning.

Buy your holiday goods now before they are picked over. Turner's Racket Store has them.
